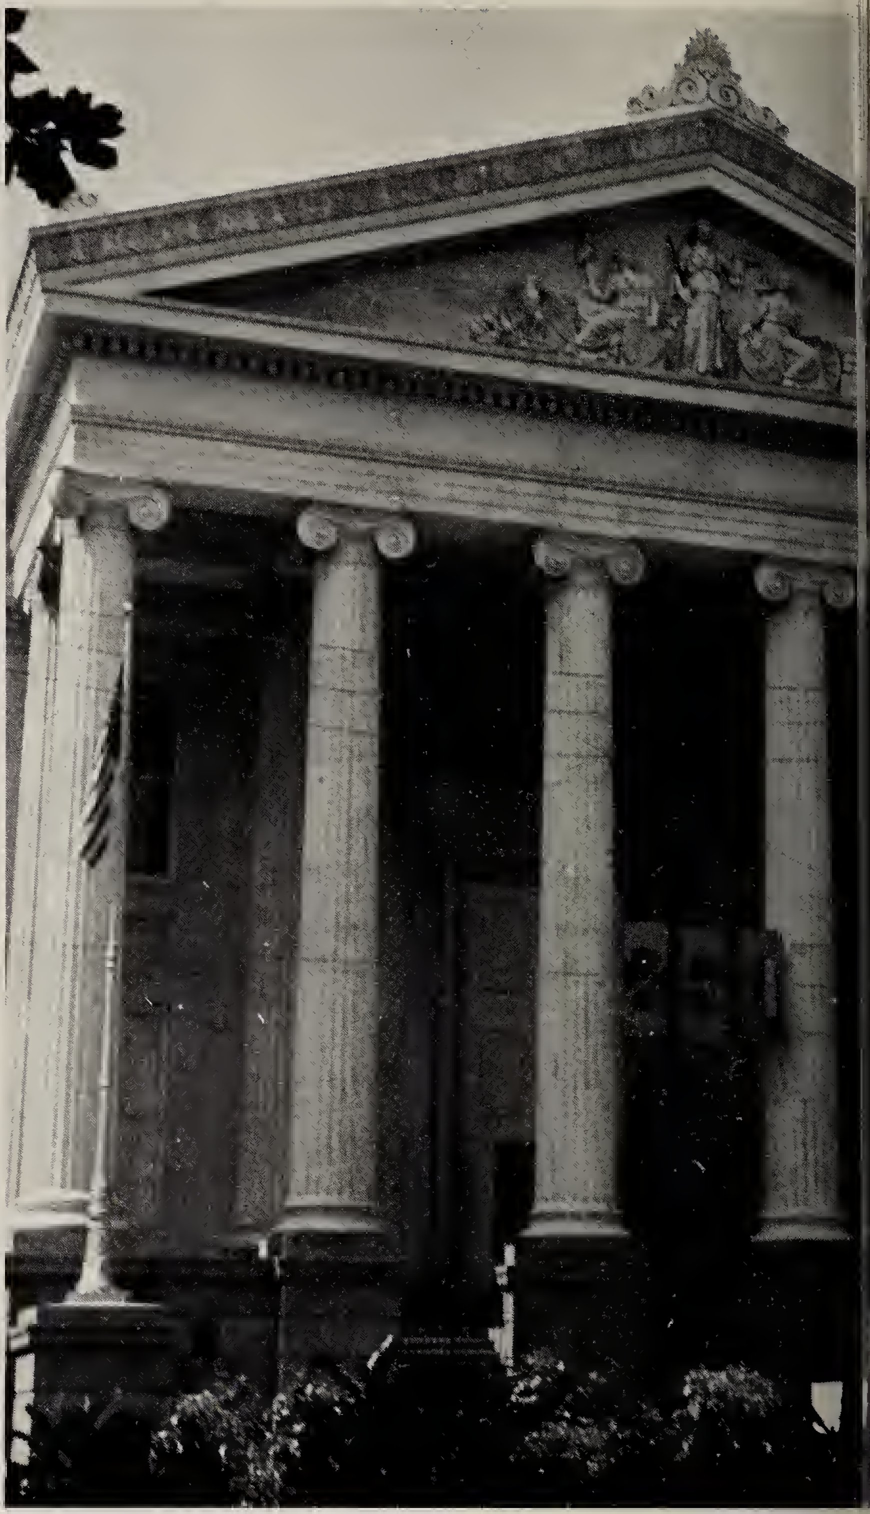
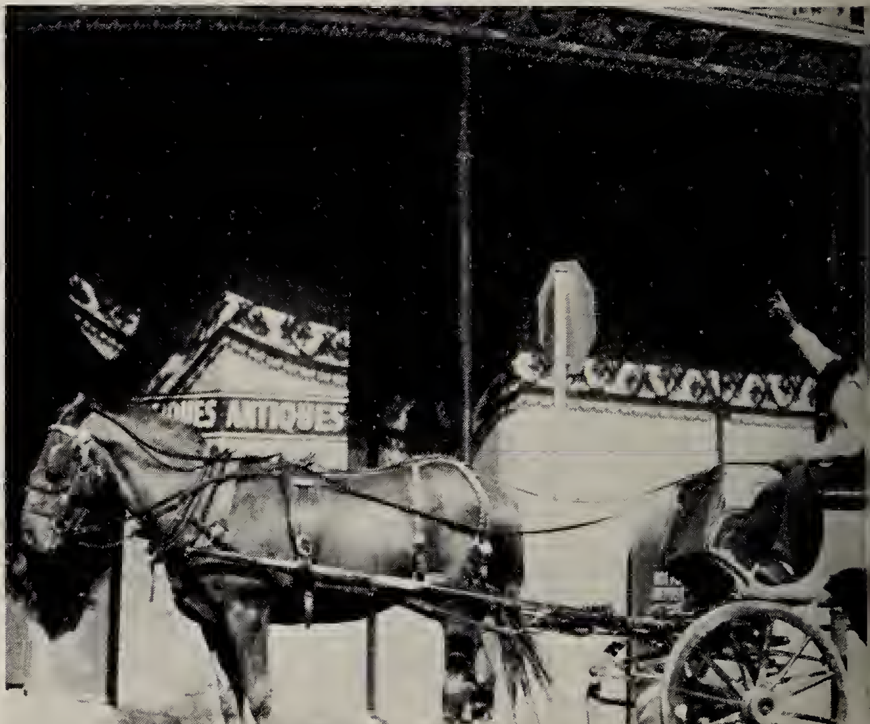
“The City That Care Forgot”

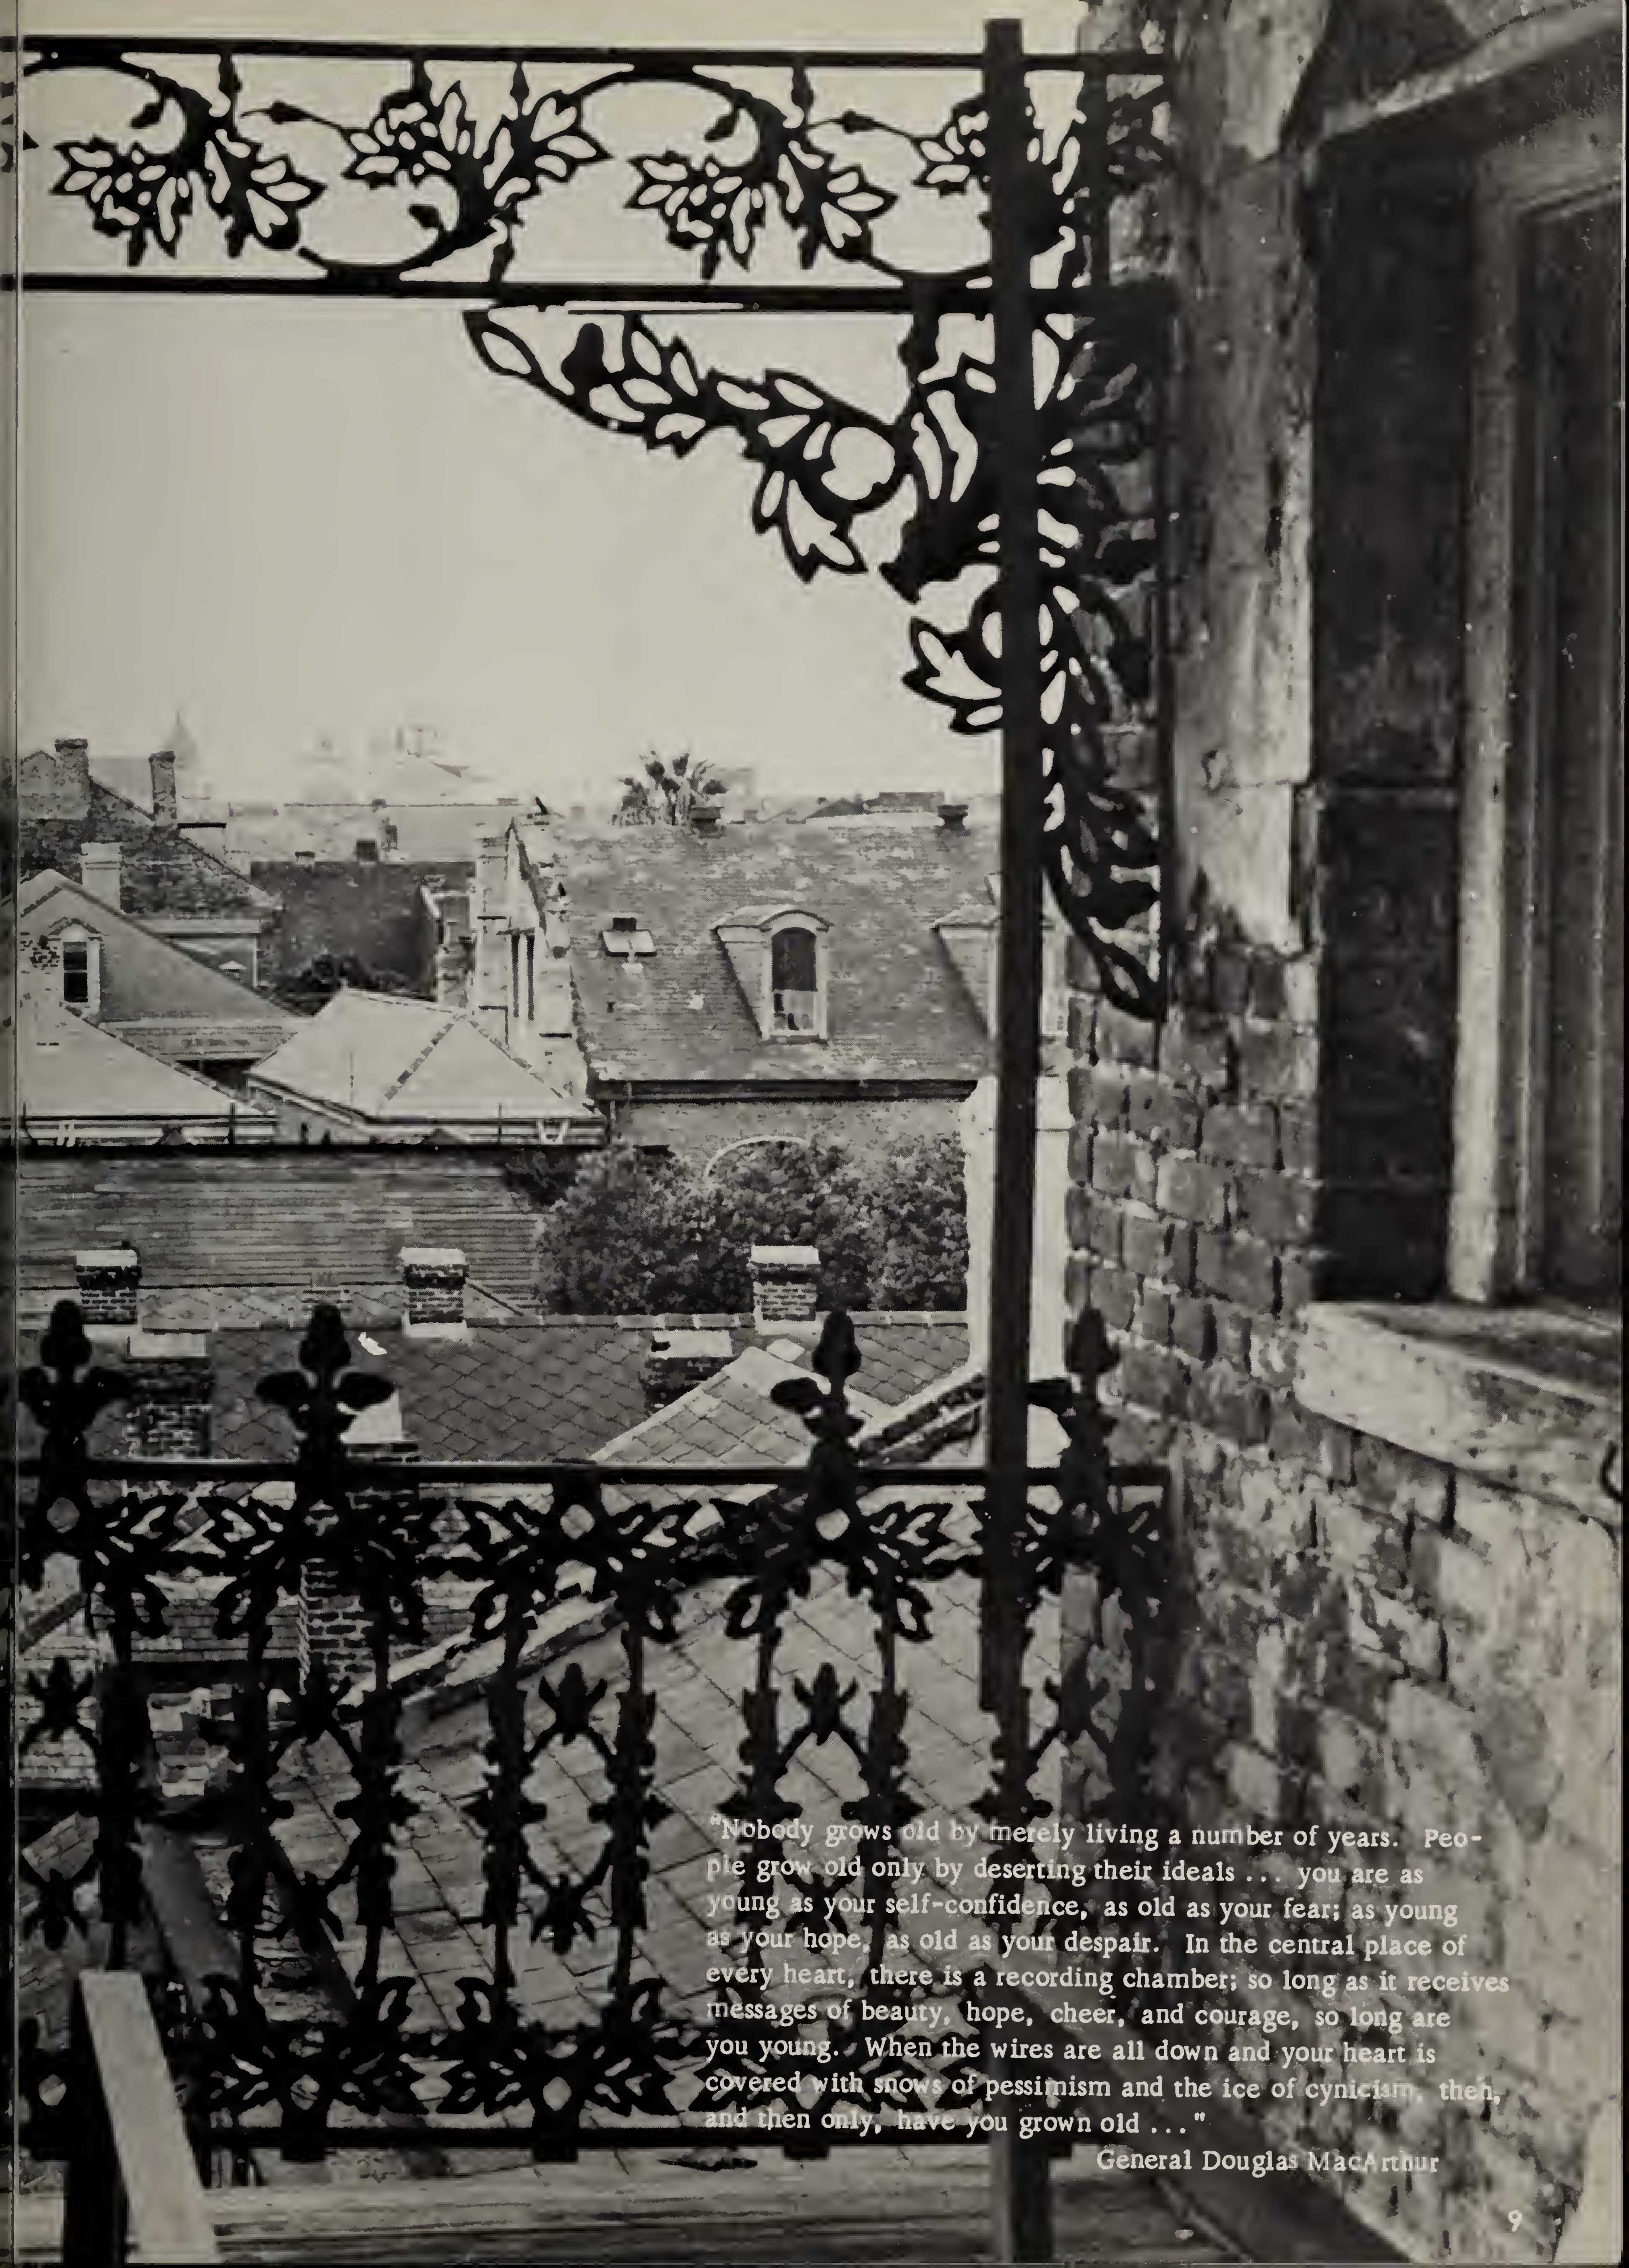




QUES ANTIQUES

New Orleans clings to gracious traditions of the past, keeps pace with the present, and plans for the future.

1968 marks the 250th anniversary of the founding of New Orleans by Jean Baptiste in 1718. New Orleans, the nation's first melting pot, has blossomed under three cultures, the French, Spanish and American. And, today it continues to grow as a truly interesting city. However, its ethnic traditions keep it from being a typical city - it remains engulfed in history, romance and legend. New Orleans abounds in unique style and old character which helps to make it such a perfect combination of old world charm in a modern atmosphere. New Orleans is a city in love with life. Unlike other cities ... "New Orleans takes its pleasure seriously; it pivots around Mardi Gras which is a fantasia of madness and magic rolled into mirth upon which more than three million people are both cast and audience to the greatest show on earth."



"Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years. People grow old only by deserting their ideals . . . you are as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, as old as your despair. In the central place of every heart, there is a recording chamber; so long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, and courage, so long are you young. When the wires are all down and your heart is covered with snows of pessimism and the ice of cynicism, then, and then only, have you grown old . . ."

General Douglas MacArthur

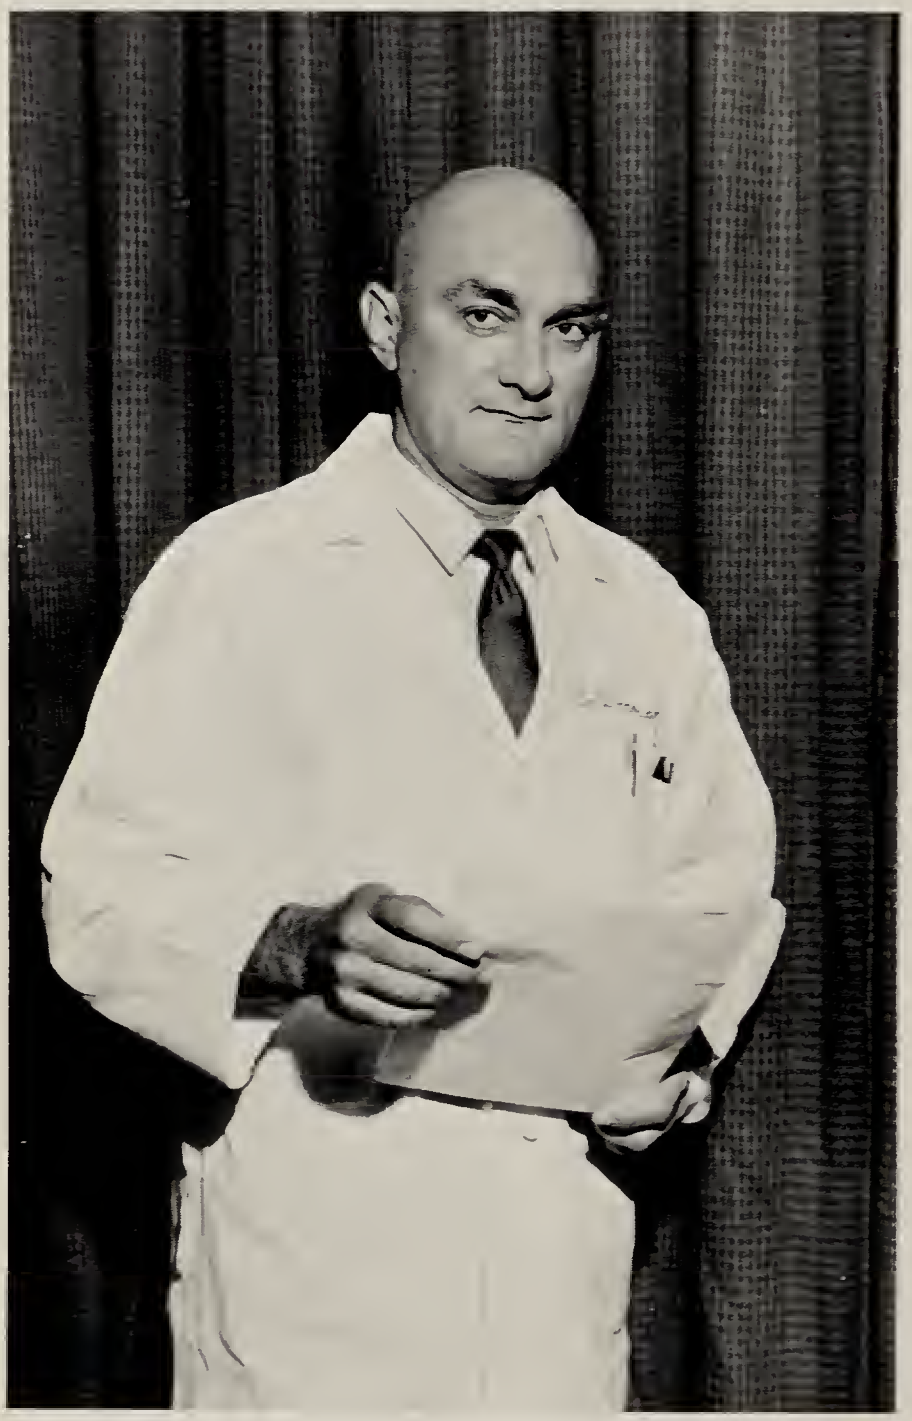
CHSN Recognizes Its Leaders

Under the administration of Governor John McKeithen, Dr. Louis Burroughs, and the Charity Hospital Board of Administrators, Charity Hospital made noteworthy accomplishments in 1968-69.

Much progress was made on the multi-million dollar program of construction, renovation and modernization of Charity Hospital. The School of Nursing believes the highlight of this program is the plan for a new Charity Hospital School of Nursing educational building, which will be ready for occupancy in 1970.

Also deserving commendation is the hospital's course in Intensive Care Nursing, which is now undergoing its second year at Charity. The course is believed to be one of the most comprehensive courses in Intensive Care Nursing in the United States.

Other improvements included installation of an electric computer, which is expected to revolutionize Charity's procedures for administrative and financial record-keeping and strengthen the hospital's program of scientific research and patient care.



DR. LOUIS BURROUGHS, Director Charity Hospital

SISTER ELEANOR is Director of Sisters Division which includes department heads, supervisors, and specialized personnel in Charity Hospital and its School of Nursing.

FACULTY AND STAFF

"Education is not learning; it is the exercise and development of powers of the mind; and two great methods by which this end may be accomplished are in the halls of learning or the conflicts of life."

DIRECTOR'S
HONOR

SISTER BLANCHE - Director Charity Hospital School of Nursing

Sister Blanche, Director C.H.S.N.

The 1968-69 school year has had its own kind of hectic activities. Renovation of the C.H.S.N. dormitory is complete after many years of reversals and set-backs; new furniture has replaced the 30 year old vintage. Plans for the school's new educational building due to be completed in 1970 have been repeatedly revised but now completed. Much of Sister Blanche's time has been spent in long considerations, decision-making and implementing of plans for these projects. Other of her responsibilities include membership in nine regional, state and national nursing organizations; two of which are the Executive Committee of the Council of Diploma Programs of the National League of Nursing; Chairman of the Department of Diploma Programs of Louisiana League for Nursing. In her busy schedule, Sister Blanche also reserves as a prime responsibility the time for considering the promotion of each student, for reviewing her progress in the School and for citing those students for Director's Honor Roll membership and outstanding achievement in an area of nursing experience.

CLASSES

As Freshmen, Juniors, and Seniors we differ in many prospectives, yet all striving for one goal --- to become good nurses, which is gained only through tedious hours of study, care plans, research papers, weekly exams and finals - along with extracurricular activities.

Barbara Viator, Vice-President; Jane Bentel, President; Nancy Probst, Treasurer; Ann Thibodeaux, Secretary; Mary Ann Scheuermann, Sergeant-at-Arms.

DEPARTMENTS

Much foresight into nursing is provided to students here at Charity Hospital School of Nursing through the numerous departments in which we preform technical skills and nursing care as well as gain knowledge through formal class. With this system of learning, we are better able to see the "good" and "bad" at the same time we are planning our future as Registered Nurses in one of these fields -

Maternity And Newborn Nursing — Where Little Things Mean A Lot

The course in Maternity and Newborn Nursing provided the Junior students with ten weeks of theory and nursing experience in the care of the pregnant woman (before, during and after delivery) and the newborn infant.

Through films, assigned readings and discussion, emphasis was placed on involving the total family during pregnancy.

These students also had the opportunity to observe and to participate in giving prenatal and postpartal care to private patients in the offices of private obstetricians.

3 - 2 - 1 - Blast off!

Medical Surgical Nursing - a rather all incompassing title which actually included four nursing courses of ten weeks duration each. Junior level courses consisted of Medical Nursing 153 and Surgical Nursing 155 which included operating room experiences, recovery room, and orthopedic nursing experiences. Senior level courses consisted of Surgical Nursing 154 in addition to Senior Medical Surgical Nursing 166 which was composed of team nursing, neurosurgical nursing, and intensive care nursing.

Through this series of courses which accounted for one year in the nursing curriculum, a student progressed from the comprehensive care of one patient to the progressive team care of many patients, as well as the intensive care of several patients.

Curriculum Includes Nursing Away From the Bedside

Senior students examplified patient interaction and health teaching in most of the hospital's Outpatient Clinics this year. Teaching was accomplished through showing and discussing health films, implementing a self-constructed lesson plan on a topic of choice and participating in a program of classes for expectant mothers.

In this area of learning, the student chose a patient for special study and visited his home. Visits for the observation of continuity of care were also made to patients referred by other students who had nursed them in the hospital ward.

Several field trips to and guest speakers from health and welfare agencies were scheduled. The student also learned concepts of disaster nursing during a three week tour of experience in the Emergency Room.

Nursing of Children, Where Play is Work

The most delightful words of a preschooler at Charity Hospital are, "Where is my student nurse? Is she coming tomorrow? She belongs to me!"

In Nursing of children, the student learned to adjust to the child by putting herself in his place for a short time, to think his thoughts, feel his needs, and to understand his limitations. This 9 unit course offering concurrent theory and nursing experience in the area of Infants, Juveniles, and Communicable Diseases provided the student an opportunity to care for children from birth to twelve years of age. The nurse was given a comprehensive picture of the child - his growth and development, his care, and his health problems - at each of the developmental periods. She was also provided an opportunity for health teaching to both the child and his parents.

The Interpersonal Process of Psychiatric Nursing

The course in psychiatric nursing continued to emphasize the use of scientific knowledge in understanding behavior, and purposeful use of self in establishing helpful relationships with patients. Students established one-to-one relationships with psychiatric patients, and also carried out various individual projects throughout the year - such as sewing groups, exercises, square dancing, and even a mock presidential election. The hope for the student who completed the course was that she had a better understanding of ALL persons and the ability to use the principles of psychiatric nursing in all of her future nursing practice.

Emphasis was placed upon learning principles, "the guides to nursing action," in the first year nursing courses which are considered foundation for 2nd and 3rd year nursing courses. Nursing experience and nursing conferences were provided concurrently with class. Opportunities in the clinical area were provided to develop understandings and skills in the practice of nursing functions common to the care of most patients. The beginning student was first assigned to meet basic needs of non-critical patients on a functional basis progressing to caring for patients presenting commonly occurring health problems.

Into the Realms of the Basic Sciences — The Curious Come to Know the Human Body Better

Basic Sciences were taught in the freshman year and gave the student the scientific foundation for nursing. In Anatomy and Physiology, such topics as "Beams of Bone," "Moving with Muscle," and a "Network that Never Sleeps" gave an understanding of the skeleton, muscles and nervous system.

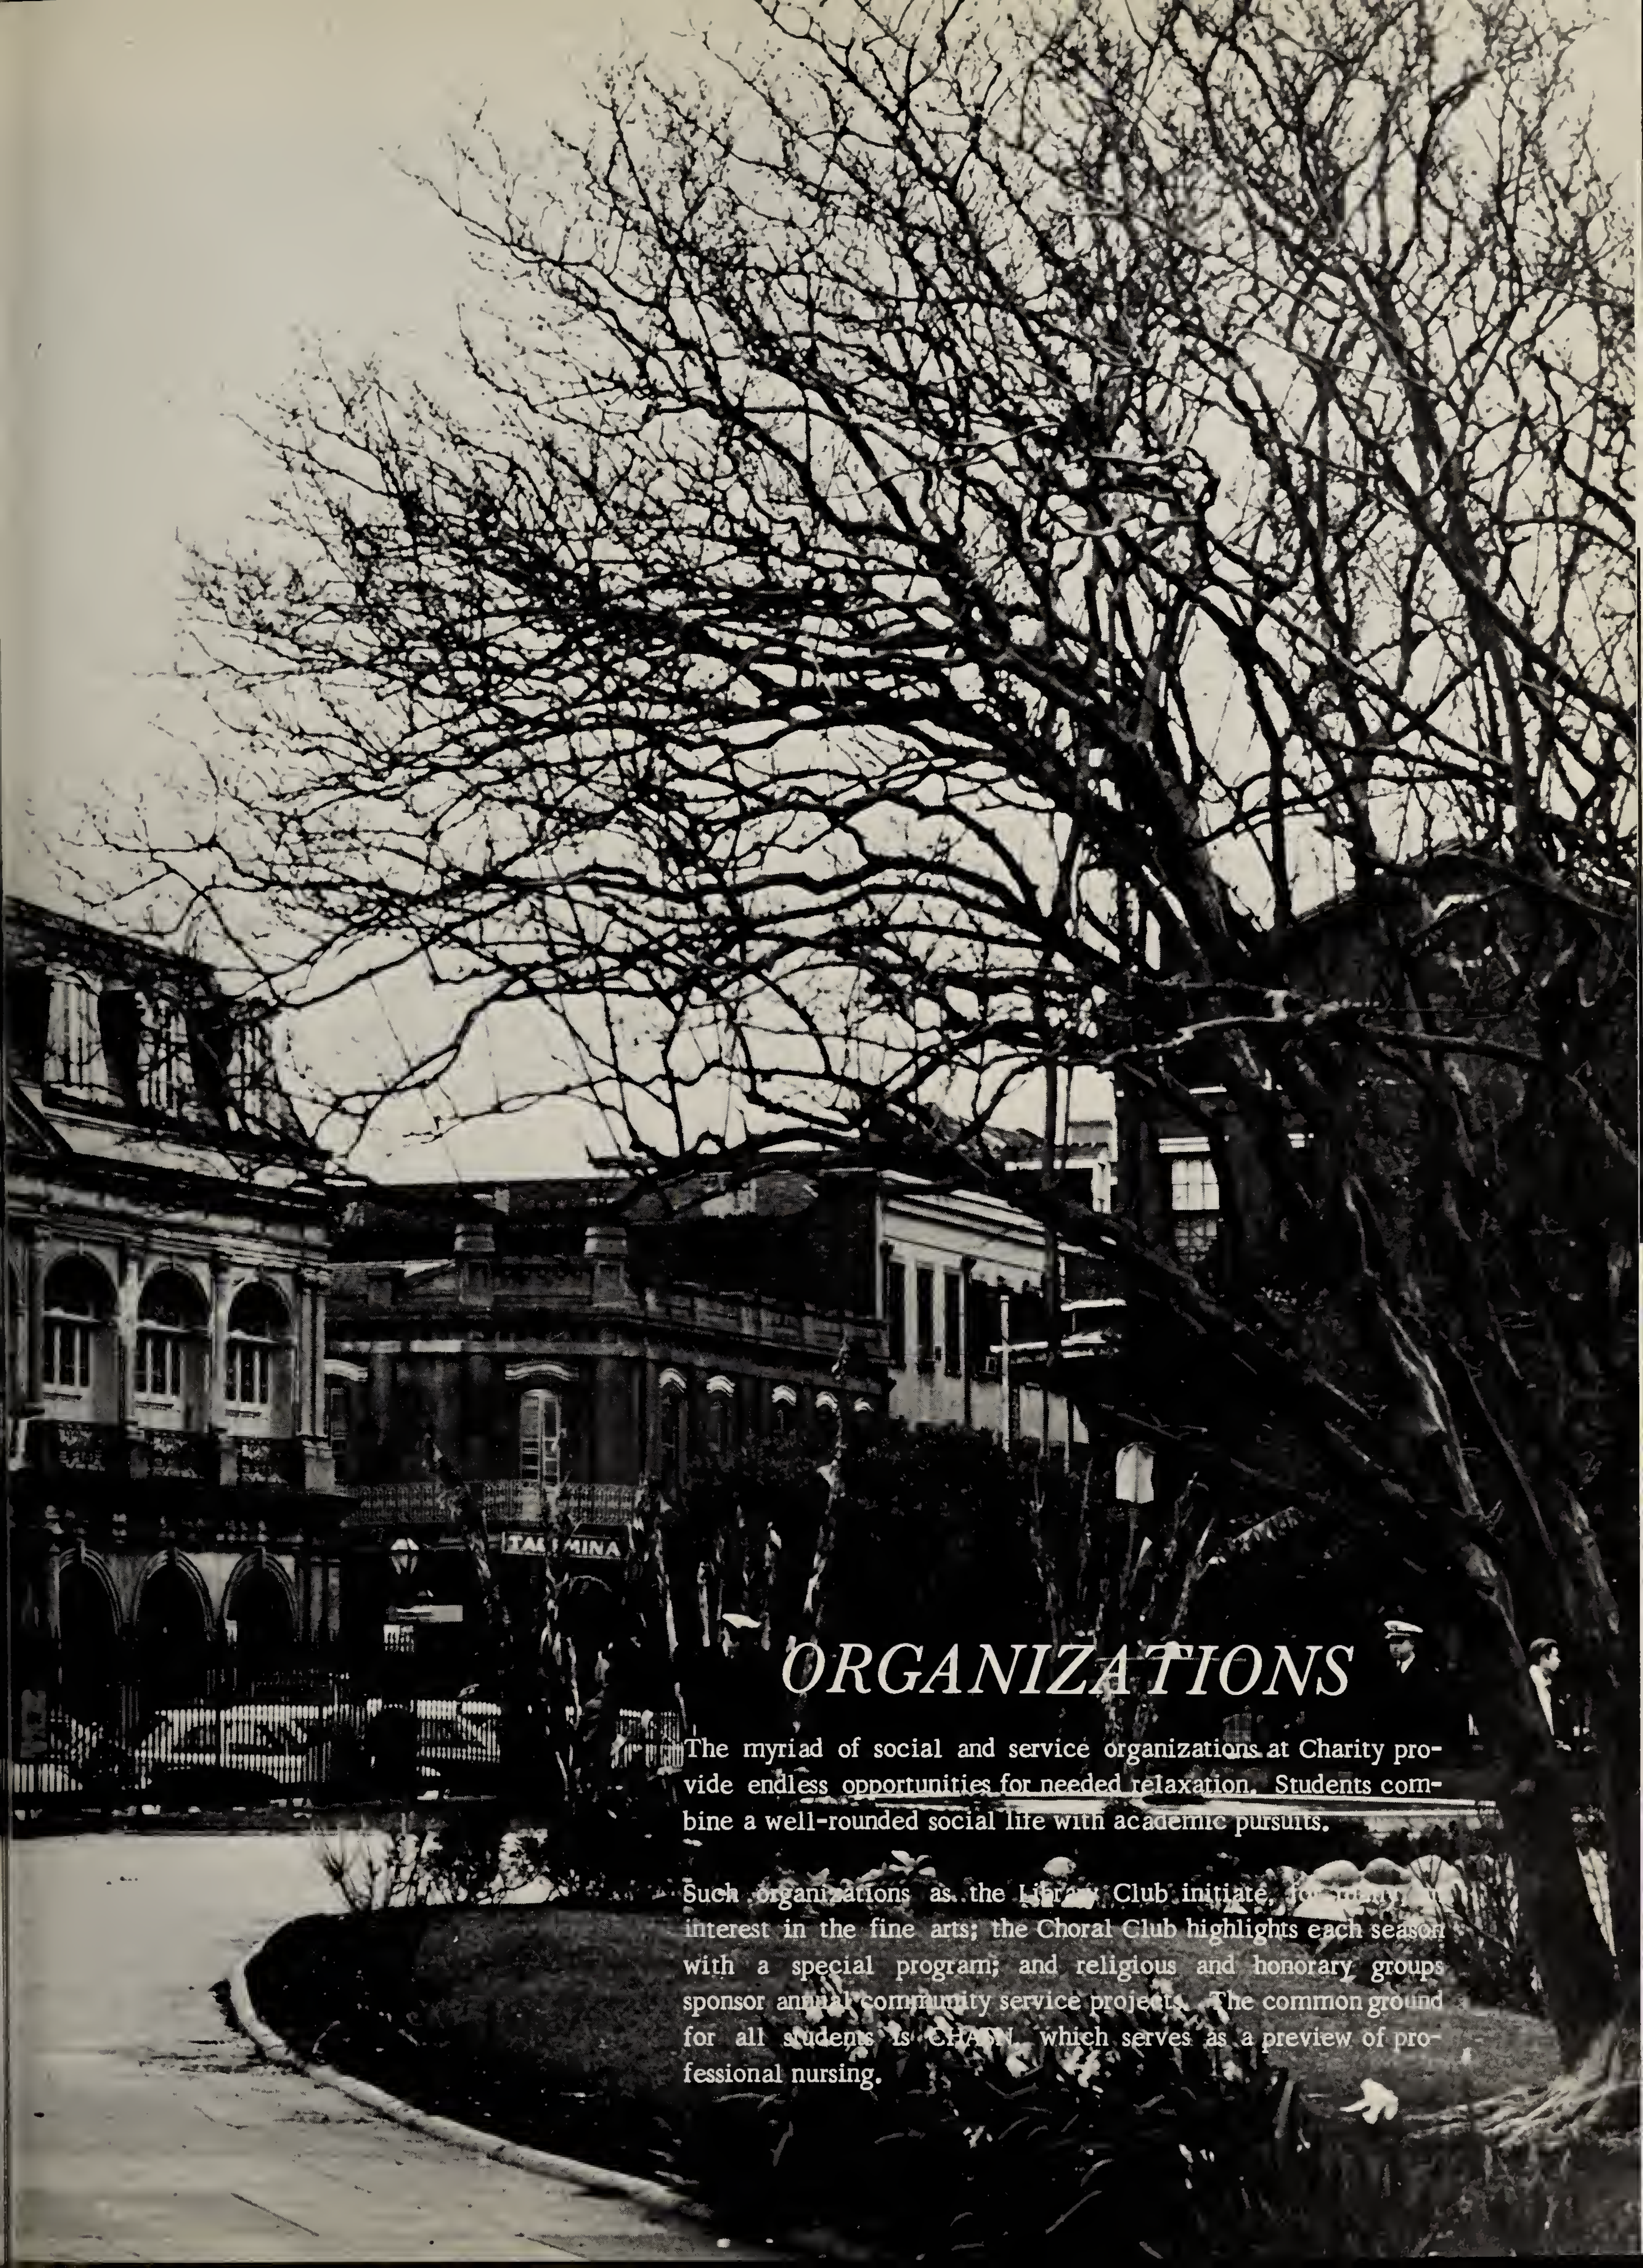
Microbiology probed the world of life visible through the microscope showing the student another world of organisms - some pathological - some beneficial to human life.

In Chemistry the student learned to correlate chemicals as they function in the human body. Thus the internal environment of man has a constant state of homeostasis.

Nutrition provided the student with new concepts of food as a tool in maintaining good health through proper diets when studying various states of human health.

Is it REALLY the appendix?

"Alas poor Yorick, I knew him well."



ORGANIZATIONS

The myriad of social and service organizations at Charity provide endless opportunities for needed relaxation. Students combine a well-rounded social life with academic pursuits.

Such organizations as the Library Club initiate, for many, an interest in the fine arts; the Choral Club highlights each season with a special program; and religious and honorary groups sponsor annual community service projects. The common ground for all students is CHASN, which serves as a preview of professional nursing.

CHASN Promotes Professionalism

The primary purpose of the Charity Hospital Association of Student Nurses is to provide preprofessional direction to student nurses by encouraging participation in the various activities sponsored throughout the year. Included among this year's activities were the State Convention which 49 CHASN members attended and a district recruitment program entitled "Breakthrough to Nursing" which aimed to interest minority groups in a nursing career. The necessary funds to carry on these activities were obtained through several means - a car wash, Tupperware Party, and the sale of Halloween candy. Among the achievements which the organizations' members attained this year are the Student Nurse of the State, a District Officer, and the Chairman of the Student Nurse of the State Committee.

Student Representatives Seek

The Student Council, Charity Hospital School of Nursing's governing body, is composed of elected class representatives and the student body officers. The council acts for, and in the name of, the student body and is a liaison agent between the administration and the student group. Student Council members assume the responsibility of considering infractions of rules and regulations with which students are charged and for imposing penalties previously determined by Council and the administration. The Student Council of 1968-69 will probably long be remembered for writing many letters containing recommendations to the faculty.

Better Welfare for All

Student Body officers strive to represent members of the student body both individually and as a group. The president and vice-president are elected from the senior class and the secretary and treasurer are members of the junior class. Activities of officers include membership on Student Council.

Janis Hervey, Vice-President; Pat Carreras, President; Penny Attaway, Secretary; Madeline Ledet, Treasurer.

The Social Activities Committee, composed of class and organization presidents and sponsors, met monthly to plan the school's social activities and discuss organizations' and classes' plans for future activities. This year the committee prepared the annual social activities budget, encouraged presidents to circulate agendas before class and organization meetings, planned Christmas parties, Stunt Night, Awards Night, a spring dance and Mixers with local universities. The committee also requested and received permission for students' dates to be invited to monthly movies.

Sigma Alpha Chi Recognizes Honor Students

Sigma Alpha Chi, the honorary scholastic sorority of Charity Hospital School of Nursing, has as its motto "Knowledge once gained casts a light beyond its immediate boundaries." Members are selected from students who, after completion of the first semester of the Junior year, have maintained a cumulative quality point average of 2.2, manifested leadership and interest in at least two school activities and who are of good moral character.

New members are welcomed to Sigma Alpha Chi with a party given by old members.

C Club is an honorary organization of campus leaders and loyal Charity students elected by members and approved by faculty. Through various club sponsored activities, the student body was brought together with hopes of advancing school spirit and promoting inter-class apprecation. Pep rallies before volleyball games promoted school attendance at the games and helped spur the Charity team on to win. Everyone enjoyed the fun, food, and costumes at the Thanksgiving Weiner Roast once the fires were lit! Besides promoting school spirit, students helped spread Christmas cheer at the party for the underprivileged children of the area. C Club provided a student telephone directory, an Easter party for faculty and students and was ever ready to help serve refreshments after school functions.

The activities of the Catholic Student Organization provided education, relaxation, and entertainment for its members. The club sponsored guest speakers on various topics of current interest. One activity the club promoted in collaboration with Father Meyers was Inquiry Classes on Catholicism for all students. A spring retreat was planned, not only for the members, but for all interested students.

Citywide and statewide events with other BSU groups added interest, fellowship, and new friends.

NCF Hosts—Bible Study for All

NCF, a sub-division of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, is an organization of students formed for Bible study and discussion sessions.

This year's activities have included a study of the Gospel of Mark, a series on Christian doctrine, and guest speakers. The group also had Thanksgiving and Christmas parties.

Choral Club Enlivens Festivities

The Choral Club is more than a run-of-the mill group of songsters. Under the helpful eye of Mrs. Boylan, it has blossomed with talent. Their antics entertained many at student body meetings, the Christmas play and the Spring Program.

Every Wednesday evening the organization was heard above the masterful accompaniment of Doug Boylan. One looking in on a practice might have thought Choral Club members were pretending to be dancing stars; while instead they were practicing for such shows as their program on the post-war 30's. All-in-all, it was a fun year with a lot of excitement.

Library Club Renders Service

Sheila and Mary help return books to their proper places.

Although its membership is small, the Library Club is a club of action whose purpose is to render service to the school and provide assistance to the librarians whenever necessary.

Activities for the 1968-69 school year included programs featuring authorities on classical music and skin care. Club members also participated in cultural activities which included ushering for the 1968-69 New Orleans Symphony and Opera Season and visiting the Wax Museum where the members were whisked back in time to view the historical past. The major money-making project was the annual Book Sale which added greatly to the Club's treasury.

White Cap — the Students' Voice

In order to keep in step with the fast pace of the students this year, the newspaper staff was reorganized to include not only a general editor, but also individual department editors. Proofreading, layout committees and typists also played a vital role. A "Letters to the Editor" column was added so that the voice of each student could be heard. Also to insure freedom of speech, no articles were deleted or drastically changed before a conference was held with the reporter. Films and pamphlets offered education in journalism.

FEATURES

Presentation of the Beauty Court has long been a tradition highlighting the social agenda of the school. Each year the Queen and her Court, selected from fifteen nominees, are honored at the Winter Formal. For the past two years, the New Orleans Saints' football team has served as judge of the contest.

Each year the Senior Class recognizes outstanding class members by its selection of superlatives who exhibit those virtues equated with the high ideals of the school. Although nominations are made by the Seniors, elections are by popular vote of the student body. Congratulations to these "Senior Favorites."

Beauty Queen

VICKI CHETTA

The 1969 Queen of the Beauty Court is Miss Vicki Chetta, a native of New Orleans. She is 5'7" tall and has brown hair and green eyes. Vicki is talented as well as beautiful. This year she is Editor of Caps and Capes and district co-ordinator of "La Pelicano." She is also a member of CHASN, C Club and the social activities committee. Vicki will be marrying Eddy Quijano, a law student, on May 31.

Honor Maid

PAM ELIAS

Honor Maid in the 1969 Beauty Court is Miss Pam Elias, a native of New Orleans. She is 5' tall and has light brown hair and brown eyes. Pam is assistant-editor of Caps and Capes. She is also active in other organizations including C Club and student council. Pam is dating Nickie Noriea, a pre-law student, and at present, her plans for the future include college after graduation from Charity.

ACTIVITIES

Memories of Student Body functions remain indelibly in our minds. For each student there is a special warmth [illegible] To the Seniors, the [illegible] and Little Sisters, the promises [illegible] of the Winter Formal. With these events, we come closer to each other and our Alma Mater as we near our ultimate goal.

Freshmen Begin a New Life

Parties and get togethers were all a part of the freshmen's "New Life" and helped to supplement the trauma and pains it took to find one's way to Major's Book Store and attend those endless orientation meetings.

Freshmen were subjected to many new and difficult situations during their orientation. Second floor was very busy that first week, and students ran endlessly to meet requirements expected of them. The Cap is Our Crown,

Days pass uneventfully; seven o'clock classes seem much too early. Working and going to class, drug cards, care plans, growth studies ... At times it all seems useless; the gap between the reality of nursing and the ideal widens. But this day we are proud to be nurses. We are young; we can make nursing what we want it to be. Our opportunity is now. We accept our Charity Cap proudly, and we place our highest goals in it, Promising ourselves that the coming year will be a good one - one in which we become increasingly skilled and more aware of others' needs. The black band is the paramount. We are almost there. This is the year of polishing skills, of solidifying ideals. This is the day we come to the realization of who we are, what nursing is, and what kind of a nurse we are going to be. This is capping and black banding.

Dr. Peter Jannetta, Chairman of Neurosurgery at L.S.U. Medical Center, was guest speaker at Convocation.

Christmas always seems to be the best time of year. At Charity it is many things. It is sharing our youth and good fortune with the underprivileged children at the C Club Christmas party; it is spreading the joy and happiness of the season by singing Christmas carols to our patients at Charity; it is warmth and memories of oru childhood as we trim the Christmas tree with our friends; it is sadness as we think of our friends and brothers spending Christmas in Viet Nam while we view the Choral Club Christmas play; it is anticipation as we look forward to the vacation with our loved ones; and it is love and giving in the true spirit of Christmas as we surprise friends and family with gifts that we worked hard to earn. Yes, Christmas at Charity is many things - many of the best things.

Winter Formal — The Pinnacle of Social Events

The social event of the year at Charity is the annual Winter Formal. The expectation seems unbearable, but the actuality is well worth the wait. This year, January 11 was the big night. Paul Variscoe and the Milestone provided psychadelic entertainment. It turned out to be a night of beautiful girls and handsome escorts. Sobriety was forgotten and free three o'clocks were well appreciated.

"Rosy and Marty's 1st prize Laugh-In" presented by the Junior class was filled with fast-moving vaudeville humor. Psychadelic lights focused on cast in the wake scene, hospital scene and go-go club.

Seniors rendition of "Fractured Fairy Tales" featured Cinderella, Snow Nurse and the 7 Cretins, Jack and the Beanstalk and various other small fractures, along with a moving song, "Seniors say Goodbye."

Freshmen Learn Fire Fighting Techniques

In order to be able to handle possible emergency situations that might arise in the hospital, freshmen were required to visit local fire stations and operate fire-fighting equipment. Over the years, Charity has instilled in her students a profound devotion to the highest standards of nursing. As this year closes, the memories of these past months are overshadowed only by the anticipation and hopes of a successful future.

From the city in love with life, each girl carries with her that same love, steeped in tradition and the appreciation of the beauty and quaintness of yesterday and splendor of today. For each, there is a vow that tomorrow will be better because of the lessons of yesterday.
